The American Girl.

WHAT MAKES HER POPULAR.

The American girl is admired and liked at home and abroad because she is the happiest, usually the healthiest and friendliest of girls. She is fond of life and is alive to everything beautiful and good in existence. Mrs. Langtry has said that the American woman has little to learn from her English sisters.

Dr. Pierce, the specialist in women's diseases, of Buffalo, N. Y., advises simple exercise for women, preferably in the outdoor air. But many women are confined to the house and their household duties or their business confines them to poorly ventilated rooms.

If a woman suffers from a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, she naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the woman's organs. In 95 per cent. of cases the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

THE HANNAH ELIAS CASE.

Hannah Elias, the negress, accused of having blackmailed him out of $685,000, having been freed from the criminal charge of extortion, spent Saturday at her home, No. 236 Central Park West, getting ready to take an outing for the summer. Kato, the Japanese major domo of the establishment, was much in evidence, dancing about. Callers were freely admitted and the Elias woman in an exuberance of triumph gave to reporters statements regarding her relations with Platt, who now has pending a civil suit to recover a portion of his fortune. The woman wore a light blue negligee gown, trimmed with expensive lace, and Oriental slippers.

"About Mr. Platt?" she said. "Oh, he loved me and I believe he loves me yet, though his senility makes his affection pathetic. He would be calling here yet if it was not for his relatives. They found he was giving me money and decided to stop it. I am afraid they were fearful of their inheritances. He often told me his relatives were trying to have a guardian appointed for him. Mr. Platt told me he loved me as much as though I was his wife. He would clasp me in his arms and called me his Queen of Sheba, and he said I should be decked out in all the Oriental splendor of a sultana. He forced money on me. He couldn't be stopped from forcing it on me, and I never asked him for one cent. He frequently told me I should have his fortune, and oftentimes I urged him not to give me expensive presents and money. One day he came in and pulled from his pocket a roll of bills amounting to $18,000. I refused to accept it and he threw it on the floor. The cord with which it was tied broke and an electric fan scattered the bills over the floor, like leaves from a tree over the lawn. He wouldn't pick it up; neither would I. I touched a bell and Kato came in with a dustpan and brush and swept up the money and dumped it in a drawer of my secretary. I only sent for Mr. Platt when I wanted his advice."

Billiards in Lions' Den.

A dispatch from London says that two men played a game of billiards in a lions' cage at Scarborough Hippodrome on Friday night. They repudiate any suggestion that they were nervous; it was the audience that was excited. The lions were simply curious. "The risk was slight," said Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, one of the players, who manages a local billiard room. "Mile. Ella, who earlier in the evening put her head for a moment in the mouth of one of the lions, exerted her influence, and the animals appeared to be curious rather than dangerous. They watched the game intently. I was not in the slightest degree nervous, though I confess I kept one eye on the lions while the other was on the game. The cues were special ones and very heavy. Had they been required they would have been useful weapons." It took Mr. Metcalfe 10 minutes to get his 25 points. He won the game by seven points. "There were some misses," he explained, "and once the ball went off the table. One of the lions gave a grunt of disapproval, but he was quieted by Mile. Ella, who recovered the ball for us." Mr. W. P. Smith, the other player, conceded that the circumstances were not such as to permit them to concentrate their thoughts on the game. "But I was not at all nervous," he hastened to add. "There was a very small element of danger, and I would rather go through it again than have a tooth drawn. All the same, had the lions taken unkindly to the game I don't know what we should have done."

The Confederate Reunion.

This is Confederate week in Nashville, Tenn., and Tennessee's capital is decorated as never before in honor of the veterans, who meet in reunion there from Tuesday to Thursday. It is figured that the number of persons attending the convention should approximate 65,000, 15,000 of them veterans. Confederate Hotel for free entertainment of the old soldiers is prepared to feed 12,000 daily. Aside from the grand parade on Thursday, the laying of the cornerstone of the Confederate Memorial on Wednesday will be a distinctive feature. It will be accompanied by many Masonic ceremonies, and Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, will address the veterans.

General Stephen D. Lee, commander of the United Confederate Veterans Association, in an interview regarding the commandery today, said: "No; I am in no sense a candidate for the place of commander of the veterans. The place is too sacred and too honorable for any man to seek it. I am merely the commander by accident of the death of our late beloved commander, the lamented Gordon. I would, of course consider it the greatest honor of my life to be elected commander of the veterans, but I would not seek the place."

Driven to Desperation.

Living at an out of the way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident, resulting in Burns, Cuts, Wounds, Ulcers, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the best on earth. 5c at E. S. Leadbeater & Sons' drug store.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets Better than a Doctor's Prescription.

Mr. J. W. Turner, of Truhart, Va., says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than anything he could get from the doctor. If any physician in this country was able to compound a medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness or constipation, his whole time would be used in preparing this one medicine.
